

Choosing a Medical Billing Partner

Considering whether or not to outsource your medical billing? Often, choosing a medical billing partner hinges on three main factors:

COST. Side-by-side comparison of companies.

EFFICIENCY. High volume claims processing.

KNOWLEDGE. Specializing in medical billing.

Once you've made the decision to outsource your medical billing, are you confused about how to choose the best business partner?

Here are a few questions to ask:

- Does the medical billing company have the history and credentials to help you achieve success?
- Does the medical billing company have the services you want at a price you can afford?
- Does the medical billing company help you enroll your group and providers with commercial and government payers?
- Does the medical billing company have an efficient billing process?
- Does the medical billing company provide financial reporting and other business analytics?

Choosing a medical billing company that will be the best partner for your practice takes thorough evaluation. CIPROMS wants to help.

information you need

Visit our webpage, "Why Outsource?" (<http://ciproms.com/about-us/why-outsource-your-medical-billing/>), for more information about choosing a medical billing company.

resources to help

While you're there, download our Cost Analysis Tool and RCM Comparison Worksheet for a high-level overview of how CIPROMS stacks up with other companies you are considering.

trained workforce

Let us bring our designated account executives, certified coders and billing specialists, and years of industry experience to work on your behalf.